

May 26, 1989; 9:55 am - I called Larry Starfield at EPA-HQ-OGC to ask about our plan to resample at Richardson Flat, particularly to make sure there would be no policy problems.

Larry thought that, in general, we were proceeding on the correct course. His only comment, which accorded with Bob Myers' comments yesterday, was that we should make the data available to all commenters on the site, including those who may not have commented on the sampling location issue.

We should let them know that, although the comment period is officially over, we would respond to late comments on this issue.
